

EVERY ONE HAPPY ON LONG ISLAND TO PORT WASHINGTON

Electrification of Road Has Been Completed and Trains
Run To-morrow.

RUNNING TIME IS CUT.

Commuters Get Much Better
Facilities After Long,
Tedious Waiting.

Those who come to Manhattan for business from points beyond Jones' beach, which is a mile or more this side of Flushing, were cheered to-day by the announcement that the electrification of the Long Island Railroad from the Pennsylvania Station to Port Washington has been completed. A trial train loaded with officials and returning Long Islanders who piled aboard at every station made the trip with distinguished success yesterday.

The first regular train under the new schedule will leave Port Washington at 8:45 A. M. to-morrow. Though the official celebration is not to be held until Saturday at Port Washington by commuters leaving from Port Washington, Flushing, Manhattan, Great Neck, Little Neck, Douglass, Auburndale, Broadway, Murray Hill, and Main street, Flushing, it is expected that not a few of those who have waited for four years for the running of through trains into the city will stay up all night to go on that first train. AVOID CHANGING CARS AT WOODSIDE.

To the commuting army the gladdest feature of the change is that there will no longer be a change of cars at Woodside. In scorching heat of summer and the driving snow of winter nineteenth of the passengers to and from the North Shore have been obliged to change from electric trains to the bleak wooden sheds at Woodside to wait for steam trains to their destination and vice versa. Lives have been lost in the crowding incident on the narrow platforms and exposure to the weather.

A number of trains have been added to the schedule in both directions during the commuting hours. The running time has been reduced from eight to twelve minutes between the Pennsylvania terminal and Port Washington. Incoming trains will now leave Port Washington after the earliest train at 5:44, 6:41, 7:31, 8:03, 8:30, 9:04, 9:33 and 10:13 in the morning and will leave Seventh avenue and Thirty-third street in the afternoon at 4:37, 4:59, 5:10, 5:38, 5:53, 6:40, 6:57, 7:23 and 8:44 in the evening. The running time will in general be eighteen minutes to Flushing, 35 minutes to Great Neck and 55 minutes to Port Washington.

The work of transforming the branch was begun in 1909 and has been exceptionally delayed by negotiations with 135 property owners in Flushing as to the purchase of a right of way. GRADE CROSSINGS HAVE BEEN ABOLISHED.

Grade crossings have been abolished in Flushing, a new station has been built there and another is under way at Murray Hill. Homes and gardens have been demolished, 200,000 cubic yards of earth have been excavated and 6,000 yards of concrete have been built.

The complete double tracking will not be finished for several months, but a new block signal system relieves the officials of any apprehension on account of the small stretch through Murray Hill and Broadway, where all trains must go over one track until the work is finished. The cost of the new construction has been $1,500,000. The equipment comprises all steel cars costing $50,000 each.

New Yorkers and Relative Lost In the Liner Volturno Disaster

MRS. FRIDA KRUG

NEW YORKERS LOST ON THE LINER VOLTURNO WHICH BURNED AT SEA.

John Krug, His Wife and Her Sister Among Those Who Perished.

It was learned to-day that among the victims of the Volturno disaster of Oct. 18 were John Krug and wife of No. 84 West One Hundred and Thirty-first street, New York, and Miss Adela Ciska, sister of Mrs. Krug, who was on her way from Austria to make her home here. Mrs. Johanna Krug, mother of John Krug, has given up hope of ever seeing her son and daughter again.

Mrs. Krug is a homemaker and wanted to see her parents in Austria. She persuaded her husband, who was employed by the contractors constructing the Catskill aqueduct, to go with her back to the old country for a visit. They sailed on Aug. 14. Mrs. Krug had a letter from her son written in Rotterdam stating that they would arrive in New York on the Volturno Oct. 18. Until Saturday the mother had that mysterious hope that only a mother knows that her son would somehow be saved. But after searching the list of survivors on all the ships that went to the rescue of the Volturno and after Oct. 18 had passed she gave up and wept bitterly.

"It is more bitter," she said to an Evening World reporter, "because he had been so kind to me since I was left a widow when he was nineteen years old." He was thirty-two years old and his wife was twenty-eight. Miss Adela Ciska, another of the twenty-four cabin passengers of the Volturno, was a sister of John Krug's wife. She was eighteen years old and was coming to New York to make her home with her brother-in-law.

CHAUFFEUR WHO KILLED MAN GIVES HIMSELF UP.

Traced by Auto Number, Says He Fled Because He Was Confused.

George Wood, chauffeur for Andrew J. Prizini of the Hotel Ansonia, vice-president of the Railway Improvement Company at No. 136 Broadway, surrendered himself at the East Sixty-seventh street station this morning after Detective Gallagher had identified him, through the license number of the car as the motorist who ran down and injured fatally John O'Brien in front of the latter's home, No. 408 East Seventy-ninth street, last night. O'Brien died in the Metropolitan Hospital this morning.

Wood said that he had been driving a car for ten years and had never had an accident before. He became confused and excited last night, he said, although he realized that he should have stopped. He said he had driven his employer to the Hotel Lafayette, in University place, and was on his way to pay a call on some friends in Seventy-ninth street before returning for Mr. Prizini.

Six Persons Injured When Auto and Trolley Car Crashed.
An automobile and a trolley car trying to pass each other on the same track yesterday at Jackson avenue and the Shell road, Corona, L. I., were both badly damaged and the six occupants of the car were injured. The motorist, Peter Coyne of Woodside, Police Sergeant John Gargan of Manhattan, Edward E. Bernheimer, a broker of No. 88 Central Park West, his wife, B. F. Long, No. 21 West Eighty-third street, and the chauffeur, Carl Stedman of No. 318 Greenwood avenue, Brooklyn, were injured. Mr. and Mrs. Bernheimer and Mr. Long were the occupants of the automobile.

POLICEMAN SAVES LIFE.

Uses Thong of Nightstick to Stop Flow of Blood.

Patrick McQuillan, a grocer, got up at 4 o'clock this morning for an early start to market and leaned out of his window on the third floor at No. 180 West Twentieth street to see if it was raining. His hand slipped on the casement and he fell thirty-five feet to the ground. A clothesline broke his fall somewhat, but he was dazed and bleeding from a cut in the wrist that had severed an artery, when Policeman Kane appeared in response to Mrs. McQuillan's screams. The policeman used the thong of his nightstick to make a tourniquet and then called Dr. Kull from New York Hospital. The doctor dressed McQuillan's burn. He will recover.

TALL GIRL RIDICULED IN SCHOOL TRIED TO DIE

Shrank From Classmates' Jibes,
Frail Prisoner Tells Brooklyn Judges.

Very tall for her age and very thin is fifteen-year-old May Cavanagh of No. 99 Nelson street, Brooklyn, who was arraigned in the Brooklyn Children's Court to-day before Judge Ryan, charged with an attempt at suicide. The girl swallowed a quantity of cleaning fluid at her home Saturday night, but prompt remedial measures saved her life.

Judge Ryan was told that the Cavanagh girl was in a class in school composed mostly of little girls. She was subjected to continual ridicule on account of her height and about a month ago left school and went to work in a coffee factory.

The Children's Society heard of the case and started truant officers after May Cavanagh. She was compelled to quit her employment and go back to school. The ridicule of her unthinking classmates was redoubled when her father refused on Saturday to take steps toward taking her out of school as she tried to kill herself.

Judge Ryan said he felt very sorry for the prisoner, who was a pathetic figure in court. He committed her to the care of the Children's Society for one week and ordered an investigation of the case.

MRS. FITZHUGH FREED.

Relatives to Care for Virginia Woman Who Stole.

Mrs. Katherine Randolph Fitzhugh, the woman who has woven much mystery about herself and her antecedents during her stay since last March in the Tombs on two grand larceny charges, was discharged from custody on a suspended sentence by Justice Gavanagan in the Criminal Branch, Supreme Court, to-day. It is understood that relatives in Virginia are waiting to take her back to that State and there care for her.

Last Friday she pleaded guilty to the charge of having stolen a gold mesh bag, valued at $50, from Miss Dorothy Pink, the daughter of Piny Pink, in the Church of St. Bartholomew on Feb. 4 and a bracelet from Miss Irene Munster, in the Church of the Transfiguration, Nov. 13 of last year.

JUDGE ORDERS GRAND JURY TO CALL MITCHELL

Wants an Investigation of Charge That Murphy Plans to Colonize Repeaters.

Judge Malone in General Sessions ordered the Grand Jury to-day to begin an investigation into the charge of John Purroy Mitchell that Charles F. Murphy planned to win the election of Judge McCall by importing an army of repeaters. The Court ordered that the investigation be thorough and complete—that all persons who might know anything about the matter in question be summoned, and that if any person summoned refused to appear a report should be made to the Court, so that the recalcitrant person may be cited for contempt.

Evert Jansen Wendell is foreman of the Grand Jury. The investigation will be begun as soon as the preliminaries for the calling of witnesses can be arranged. Mr. Mitchell will be summoned and Mr. Murphy will also be heard.

READS THE LETTER HE GOT FROM MURPHY.

When the Grand Jury filed into court at 11 o'clock Judge Malone announced that he had received a communication which he believed he should lay before the jury without delay. He read a letter from Charles F. Murphy, written on Oct. 17, addressed jointly to the Court and District Attorney Whitman.

In the letter Mr. Murphy called attention to newspaper reports of a speech delivered by Mr. Mitchell at Murray Hill Lyceum. The reports quoted Mr. Mitchell as saying:

"I have information as to Murphy's plans. He has planned to import an army of repeaters." Mr. Murphy asked in his letter that the charge be made the subject of a Grand Jury investigation and expressed willingness to aid in any way possible.

"You will see to it," said Judge Malone to the Grand Jury, "that the motive power of this investigation is solely the desire for the enforcement of our laws and not an effort to destroy the reputation of a citizen for political purposes. Let your investigation be full and fair. If the accused person desires to be heard it is your duty to hear him warning him that what he says may be used against him."

EX-GRIDIRON STAR MUST GO BACK TO MADHOUSE

Ketcham, Spanish War Hero, Is Held by Judge to Be Insane.

BAY CITY, Mich., Oct. 19.—J. L. Ketcham Jr., of Jersey City, member of a wealthy Indiana family, will have to go back to Oak Grove Sanitarium, according to a ruling by Judge Arthur Tuttle in the United States Court here.

Ketcham claimed that he was being held as a result of a conspiracy, and that he "was sane in every State in the union except Michigan."

Ketcham is a graduate of Harvard and of the Indianapolis University Law Department. He was a member of Harvard football team seventeen or eighteen years ago. He enlisted in a New Jersey regiment during the Spanish-American war and became a captain. When the war was over he returned to his home, suffering from mental aberration.

In 1902 Ketcham was confined to various private sanatoriums. His family finally sent him to Oak Grove, in Flint. He escaped, but was returned. The sanatorium officials insisted that he be officially declared insane, which was done. He escaped again and brought the suit which has just been decided against him.

Ten thousand troops, members of colored independent military organizations of New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, are to head the grand parade at the opening of the National Emancipation Exposition next Wednesday at the Twelfth Regiment Armory.

The parade will be under the direction of Capt. William N. Jackson, U. S. A., retired, who will act as Grand Marshal. Gov. Tener of Pennsylvania has appointed a commission of ten prominent citizens to represent that State at the exposition, and Gov. Fleider of New Jersey has followed suit. Other official delegations have been announced by the Governors of Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Vermont, Delaware, Maryland, Illinois, Ohio, Wisconsin, Michigan, Iowa, Nebraska, Kentucky, Tennessee, Missouri and Indiana.

The receipt of the famous Paris Salon painting of the late Emperor Menelik II. of Abyssinia, which created a sensation in art circles abroad and which will be the most important exhibit, has been placed in safe deposit until the opening day, when it will be shown in the main gallery of the armory.

I was given cod liver oil, creosote and other medicines, all without benefit. At Christmas time, 1908, I was not expected to live. Calling Dr. R. H. McCarthy, he advised the use of Eckman's Alternative, which I took with excellent results. I have gained in weight. I go out in all weathers and have had no cough or cold whatever.
